Im'shi (go away, walk in colloquial Arabic)
by Pacific 231

The performance is a live improvisation involving an electronic canvas. Like in Pierre's previous performance Stiffie, the accent is on the immediacy of the action. The major difference is the shift from motion sensors to video feed, the dance/movement control has been replaced by an instantaneous visual feedback incorporated to real-time 2D/3D imagery and responding to the sound material. The result is an unpredictable, moving forward experience in multimedia: a near synesthetic perception of the piece.

Along with his performance Pierre will be giving a talk on his musical practice and will be available for an Q&A session.

Do not forget to bring your own "refreshments"!!

Reading of works by Bruno Schulz
in Polish and English

There is not infinity of bones, but not finiteness
From Kafka

"THE DEMIGRIOUS," said my father, did not have a monopoly on creation — creation is the privilege of all souls. Matter is prone to endless fermenting on inexhaustible vital force, and, moreover, the beguiling power of temptation which entices us to be creators. Deep within matter, unites take shape, barely perceptible, and faces freeze again, contemplating attempts at figurations. All of matter ripens with endless possibilities, which pass through it in tickly shudders. Awakening the preponderant breath of the soul, it overflows endlessly into itself, it tempts us with a thousand sweet enchantments, and the pliability it dreams up out of itself in its blind reveries."

DUBLIN CULTURE NIGHT 2010
FRIDAY 24TH SEPTEMBER
Time: 6 – 8pm

Location:
Dublin City Council Amphitheatre
Civic Offices, Wood Quay, Dublin 8

FREE EVENT!!!
Bring your friend and (comfortable) dancing shoes!

Muzykanci - a voice, fiddle and accordion based folk quartet - have been described as the leading edge of Polish folk performance. In addition to Polish music, Muzykanci are interested in the music of the Carpathian Mountains, Slovakian language minorities as well as the Jewish and Gypsy traditions. Their music attempts to revive an old style of music and incorporate this into a contemporary setting. They are also leading teachers of European folk dances and are keen to share their skills with the audience in Dublin!

Folk Ensemble Ostroha (FE Ostroha) - representing the endless variety of Slovak folklore and traditions through song, dance and music, FE Ostroha was established by Slovaks living in Ireland in 2007. FE Ostroha's repertoire interprets folkloric traditions from numerous regions of Slovakia including Horehron, Puchovany and Bani. This performance will be accompanied with unique traditional dance movements which the group are bringing to the audience.

International artistic venues in Dublin

- D-Light studios
- MadArt Gallery
- The She-d
- La Catedral Studios and the Back Loft
- ArtPolonia, Lab for Intercultural Cooperation
- Centre for Creative Practices

d-Light is the creation of fashion photographer Agata Stoinska, and came about initially as a response to the lack of inspiring, practical photographic studios available to rent in Dublin.

A Cultural Centre in Dublin inner city.

- She-d is a cultural documentation centre and workshop space in the inner city of Dublin, (off Gardiner Street, Dublin 1, behind Mountjoy sq). Following a specific policy tested in these years, this research project has been created to give a location to foreign artists resident in Ireland and their unconventional approach to art and communication. The purpose is cultural exchange. The aim is to facilitate interaction between artists from different cultures and disciplines through the "Stranger than Paradise" program, in order to promote diversity. SHE-D is an independent project.

LA CATEDRAL STUDIOS and THE BACK LOFT

- LA CATEDRAL STUDIOS is comprised of 24 art studios and is also home to THE BACK LOFT, a multi-purpose venue for the arts.
- - THE BACK LOFT is a bright open plan space ideal for art exhibitions & installations, photo shoots and film location, theatre shows and intimate performances, theatre rehearsals, auditions and workshops, new media, fashion shows, art workshops & life drawing, experimental dance and music projects, combined media events, exploratory cross media platforms & live art events, book launches and private functions. The space is open to cross collaborations, curators-led projects, students end of year shows and artist collectives' curated exhibitions.
